One day, Benny was looking out the window at the snow when he saw a little bird sitting on the branch of a tree. The bird was shivering and cold, and Benny felt sorry for it. He opened the window and let the bird inside. The bird was so grateful to Benny, and it told him that it knew a way to escape from winter.

The bird led Benny to a secret tunnel that was hidden in the woods behind his house. The tunnel was dark and scary, but Benny was too excited to be afraid. He followed the bird through the tunnel until they came to a beautiful meadow. The meadow was filled with flowers and butterflies, and the sun was shining brightly.

Benny and the bird played in the meadow for hours. They chased butterflies, rolled around in the flowers, and sang songs. Benny had never been so happy in his life. He had finally escaped from winter!

When it was time to go home, Benny thanked the bird for helping him. The bird told Benny that he was welcome, and that he would always be there for him if he ever needed anything.

Benny said goodbye to the bird and started to walk back home. He was so happy to be home, but he was also a little sad to leave the meadow. He knew that he would never forget his adventure in the secret tunnel.

From that day on, Benny never complained about winter again. He knew that even though winter could be cold and snowy, there was always a way to escape.
