One of the most fascinating aspects of the Vietnam War was the use of snipers. Snipers played a vital role in both the American and Vietnamese forces, and their skills were often the difference between life and death. One of the most famous and successful snipers of the war was Charles Henderson, a Marine who served two tours of duty in Vietnam.

Henderson's experiences as a sniper are chronicled in his book, "Marine Sniper: Two Year Odyssey In The Vietnam War." The book is a gripping and unforgettable account of Henderson's time in Vietnam, and it offers a unique perspective on the conflict.

Henderson was born in 1945, and he grew up in a small town in Mississippi. He joined the Marines in 1966, and he was sent to Vietnam in 1967. Henderson served as a sniper with the 3rd Battalion, 5th Marines, and he quickly became one of the most successful snipers in the battalion. During his two tours of duty, Henderson killed over 100 enemy soldiers.

Henderson's book is not just a story of combat. It is also a story of survival and resilience. Henderson faced many challenges during his time in Vietnam, but he never gave up. He was wounded in action several times, but he always returned to the front lines. Henderson's story is an inspiration to anyone who has ever faced adversity.

In addition to his military service, Henderson is also a successful author and speaker. He has written several books about his experiences in Vietnam, and he has spoken to audiences around the world about the war. Henderson's work has helped to raise awareness of the Vietnam War and its impact on the lives of those who fought in it.
